Death of Mr. Hooe.

Mr. John D. Hooe shot himself while alone in his "den" at his country home near Warrenton yesterday afternoon. Mystery surrounds his death. No motive has been found for suicide, and although many believe he purposely ended his life, others incline to the belief that the bullet was fired accidentally.

The first word of the tragedy was brought to Warrenton by a man who galloped into town with the news. This messenger was followed in a few moments by Mr. Hooe's stableman, who confirmed the statement.

The stableman said he was working in the stable yard when he heard a pistol shot. Knowing that Mr. Hooe was in his "den" smoking, he rushed there. He found his employer already dead, with a bullet wound over the heart. The stableman then hurried into town.

So far as is known, no one else was in the house at the time the shot was fired and no theory has been advanced as to the cause of the shooting or how it was done. Mr. Hooe was driving at the time with Mrs. Henry Daingerfield, formerly of this city. She was summoned home by a message that her husband was very ill. Mr. Hooe was thirty-eight years old, and lived on his place on the outskirts of Warrenton since he purchased it some years ago. He was well known throughout Virginia and had many friends in this city, his former home, who were shocked to learn of his death. He was a member of the Hunt Club, a director of the horse show, and interested in horses and very popular among his associates. He was always a very temperate man. Mr. Hooe was in Warrenton yesterday morning, chatting good naturedly with his associates, and nothing despondent was noticed in his manner.

Mr. Hooe was a son of the late Capt. Philip B. Hooe, who was for many years one of the most prominent merchants in this city, and a grandson of the late John B. Daingerfield, during his lifetime one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Alexandria.

In his youth he attended successively the Episcopal High School, near this city, Hanover Academy, the Virginia Military Institute and the University of Virginia. After leaving the last named institution he entered the medical school of the University of Maryland, but was compelled to abandon his studies by reason of a serious attack of illness.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Hooe married Miss May Herbert, daughter of Colonel Arthur Herbert, of the banking firm of Burke & Herbert, of Alexandria. She survives him. They had one child, who died about ten years ago. About eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Hooe moved to Warrenton, where he became prominent in social and hunt circles. Mr. Hooe was considered one of the best heavy-weight riders in Virginia, and at the time of his death maintained a small stable of high-class hunters for his personal use.

Mr. C. W. Wattle, the agent in this city of the Norfolk and Washington Steamship Line, and a friend of Mr. Hooe, received a telegram from him yesterday morning in reference to a shipment of horses to Norfolk on this evening's boat. This would indicate that Mr. Hooe at that time had no idea of self-destruction.

Mr. Hooe's friends here think he either in a moment of despondency killed himself or that he accidentally shot himself with the pistol while carelessly handling the weapon. They say he was known for his careless handling of firearms.

His father-in-law, Col. Herbert, left here this morning for Warrenton and will bring the remains of Mr. Hooe back to this city for interment.

The funeral will take place from St. Paul's Church tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock and the remains will be interred in the family lot in Christ Church cemetery.

The Boat Race.

As stated in the Gazette of that date, the Old Dominion Boat Club yesterday lost the race in the Middle States Regatta at Georgetown in the senior four oared event. In describing the race a Washington paper says:

"There was no lingering sting of bitterness. Winners and losers alike were applauded and many of the beaten oarsmen were deserving of great credit."

"This was particularly so in the case of the Old Dominion Club in the senior four oared race. The members of this crew—Charles D. Barrett, James S. Douglas, Jr., Edward Fawcett and Arthur Herbert, Jr.—are all residents of Alexandria. They are in the junior class of oarsmen, but entered as seniors. Luck seemed to be against them from the outset. Hardly had they begun to train for the race, less than two weeks ago, when one of their number was taken sick, and he rowed yesterday when physically unfit. Even with this handicap they made an excellent showing and were right up in the thick of the fight until after the bridge had been passed. They would probably have been one of the contenders, but just as they began to make their spurt in the last quarter, while lying in third place, the fin of their boat became useless, and the crew found themselves pulling all over the course. They had difficulty keeping out of the way of the other boats and were lucky to keep from fouling. They rowed a good, game race, which was observed by the members of the other crews, and the winners, the Ottawa Rowing Club, paid them a pretty compliment when, after the race, they went up and pinned the emblems of victory on the Virginiaans."

To Be Towed to Washington.

After being sunk while bound from Baltimore to Washington and presumably abandoned, the old side wheel steamer Samuel J. Pentz will make another effort to reach the capital city. Her owner, Mr. J. Heath, of Washington, had her raised by the Baltimore Wrecking Company and taken from her muddy bed near Wagner's Point to off River View, near Baltimore. It is thought she will be in condition to start for Washington on Thursday in tow of the tug Wm. H. Yerkes, Jr.

No business was transacted in the Circuit today.

R. E. Lee Camp.

A meeting of R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, was held at their hall last night. Commander W. H. May presiding.

An invitation from the New-Rice Camp, Confederate Veterans, of Newmarket, Va., to attend a reunion and picnic to be held near that place September 7th, was received.

The committee appointed at a previous meeting to prepare resolutions in respect to the memory of Comrades Frank Hume and N. Dawson made their reports, which were adopted and copies ordered to be spread upon the minutes of the camp and sent to the families of the deceased.

The adjutant was directed to tender the thanks of the camp to General G. W. C. Lee for the gift of General R. E. Lee's camp chair. The gift is highly prized by the camp and with other valuable relics of the war in their possession will be properly placed and cared for.

Delegates to the grand camp, which will meet in Roanoke the latter part of October, will be elected at the next meeting.

Investigating Murder.

Commonwealth's Attorney Grand Mackey, of Alexandria county, stated yesterday that Annie Green, the colored woman detained in connection with the murder of Jackson Boney, whose dead body was found in a buggy on Long Bridge about two weeks ago, will be taken before E. F. Thompson, justice of the peace, at the Alexandria county court house to day. During the past few days, it is said by the state's attorney, much new and valuable evidence has been discovered. The county authorities state that they have recently discovered evidence to show that Annie Green had been out with Boney at different times on rides and excursions, and that she had knowledge that he had recently come into possession of $1,600. Further evidence has been found, it is stated by the Virginia authorities, to indicate that Annie Green and Boney were having trouble in the buggy while they were driving along the road. It is asserted that the witness referred to states that there was blood on Boney's face at that time.

Funerals.

The funeral of Mrs. Wilhelmina Furrer, mother of Mr. C. Bohraus, who died Sunday afternoon, 1906, from the residence, 111 south Columbia street, this afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. John May, and the pallbearers were Messrs. Carl, Fred and Jacob Mueller, John Graf and Carl Graf and Max Waldfelner, all of Washington, and nephews of the deceased. The interment was in Bethel cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Gertrude Nash took place from St. Mary's Church this morning. The services were conducted by Rev. Father Kelly. The pallbearers were William Moore, Ernest Deahl, Rudolph Norris, Harry Quinn, Edward J. Fleming and Mr. Piper. The interment was in Bethel cemetery.

Alexandria County Day.

Tomorrow will be Alexandria County Day at Luna Park, and an interesting time is anticipated. A percentage of the receipts will be devoted toward the purchase of libraries for the public schools of the county. An attractive program has been arranged for the occasion. A number of new features have been added to those already in operation at the park, and it is one of the most interesting places in this section in which to spend an evening.

Lady Macabees.

The Lady Macabees spent a very pleasant evening last night at the rural home of Mrs. Chas. Shaffer. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers, while the soft light of the Japanese lanterns enhanced the beauty of the doors. Cream, ices and cakes were beautifully served and each guest was the recipient of a bouquet of flowers.

Moonlight Excursion.

The steamer Jamestown will make a moonlight excursion next Friday night for the benefit of the improvement fund of the parsonage of St. Mary's Church of this city. The boat will leave the Prince street wharf at 7:30 o'clock on that evening. A pleasant time is assured all who may patronize the excursion.

Sentenced to Jail.

The case of Frank Jackson, colored, who was arrested recently on the charge of stealing $25 from the fruit store of Mantle Bros., on King street, near Pitt, came up in the Police Court this morning. Justice Gatson sent him to jail for 30 days. Jackson was represented by Mr. L. H. Macken.

Death of Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Rose Moore, wife of Mr. Joseph E. Moore, died at her home on east Duke street early last night of typhoid fever. The deceased was a daughter of Joseph Dreifus and a granddaughter of Mr. Julius Dreifus. She was a popular young woman among her many friends and acquaintances.

Torture by Savages.

"Speaking of the torture to which some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their captives, reminds me of the intense suffering endured for three months from inflammation of the kidneys," says W. M. Sherman of Cushing, Me. "Nothing helped me until I tried Electric Bitters, three bottles of which completely cured me." Cures Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Blood Disorders and Malaria; and restores the weak and nervous to robust health. Guaranteed by E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' druggist. Price 50c.
